

SNAPPER'S DELIGHT

Welcome to Terryworld, a debauched, paper-based peep into the tawdry brain of fashion photographer Terry Richardson

TERRY RICHARDSON is like no other fashion photographer.

The man's work has appeared in such high falutin' fashion bibles as Vogue, Harper's Bazaar and Dazed & Confused. He's shot campaigns for Gucci, Miu Miu, Hugo Boss, Costume National and Stüssy. And he's a total and utter mentalist. Ex-heroin addict Richardson is obsessed by nudity, porn and pushing the boundaries of fashion photography. So as you'd imagine, Terryworld - a weighty compendium of his portfolio - is brilliant.

Although alongside the acres of hot booty, it does feature a wee bit too much man flesh, often Terry himself - if he wants the lady to get nekkid, he's more than happy to get things going by disrobing. But you know what you're getting right from the inside sleeve, which is a life-size snap of a girl's spaff-covered boobies. Fashion rocks.
