

Police guitarist's arresting diary

As The Police prepare for a reunion tour this autumn, Taschen is to publish a limited-edition photography book by the band's guitarist Andy Summers.

I'll Be Watching You: Inside The Police 1980-83 (15th May, h/b, £300) is a photojournal and diary of the group's heyday, with a print run limited to just 1,500 copies, all slipcased and signed by Summers.

The book contains more than 600 photos, mostly previously unpublished, of life on the road with bandmates Sting and Stewart Copeland.

Christa Carr, publicist at Taschen UK, called the volume "sumptuous, full of energy and nostalgia" and "a must for photo buffs and Police fans alike".