

It's no surprise Audrey Hepburn is featured in this Movie Icons series – after all, almost everyone you talk to professes a love for the chic actress. Charlie Chaplin, Orson Welles, Marilyn Monroe, Marlon Brando and Clint Eastwood also get some well-deserved attention in these “visual biographies” that are as classy as the movie stars they celebrate. Each book has an introductory essay, a filmography, a bio and a wealth of rare pics. My personal faves are Hepburn conferring with Humphrey Bogart on the set of Sabrina, Monroe decked out in puritan garb, Brando frozen in concentration while reading his Julius Caesar script and a sexy portrait of a young, shirtless Eastwood. What's not to like?
