architecture moves on to Spain. Lavish pictures of recent projects by individuals or firms are complemented by short biographies and contact details. The cast list includes Santiago Calatrava, best known for futuristic buildings in Valencia, the Montjuic Communications Tower in Barcelona, and designs for the new rail station at Ground Zero in New York; EMTB - Miralles Tagliabue, creators of the Scottish parliament building in Edinburgh; and iconoclastic masters of 'subversive' urban projects, such as Santiago Cirugeda.
