

04 Wiener Werkstaette
Gabriele Fahr-Becker

Without Austria's Wiener Werkstaette, the Bauhaus movement in Germany and Art Deco in France might never have happened. Founded in 1903 by Josef Hoffman, Koloman Moser and Fritz Wändorfer and lasting for just 30 years, the design workshops forged their own form of high-art modernism in a collective of craftsmen, architects and artists that also included Klimt, Schiele and Kokoschka. This special edition, published by Taschen to celebrate its 25th birthday, shows just how avant-garde and influential the workshop was.
