If you have always wanted to know what it's like to live in a luxury abode by the sea, or for those city dwellers who are thinking of picking up and moving to a simpler life, take a look at New Seaside Interiors for a little bit of escapism. This read is filled with inspirational ideas, with stunning homes that sit serenely by ocean waters.

The amazing photography shows homes that have a bit of an interior design twist, proving there is nothing typical about these beachside residences; they take the natural tones of their surroundings and infiltrate this into the décor.

Each showcases its own intricate character, working within its own limitations and boundaries while still taking full advantage of the wondrous view it beholds. From the seas of Italy to Sag Harbour, New York, and Iporanga, Brazil, incredible photography captures the magic and tranquillity of homes by the sea.
