Photographers A-Z by Taschen

Photographers A-Z by Hans-Michael Koetzle is a visual encyclopedia of the most influential photographers of the last century and their finest monographs, providing a comprehensive source of information on the past century's most influential photographers' work and their philosophy.

"A photograph is someone sensitive. You always have to renew yourself. What I did before is before is behind me." - Patrick Demarchelier

The author describes the tome as 'a lexicon and a volume of prints, a useful reference book and a feast for the eyes', a host of specially selected extracts from books and magazines depicting each photographer's most inspiring images sit alongside every profile making this a great source of creative motivation as well as a reference tool.

"Basically, all the projects I have chosen are to psychoanalyze myself - to find out who I am in relationship to other people." - Leonard Freed

Photographers A-Z boasts 400 entries, exploring the life and works of everyone from Man Ray, and David LaChapelle to Diane Arbus and Ellen von Unwerth.
