

Eyewear a Visual History by Moss Lipow

Posted on December 9, 2011 by kingsofpast

During a recent trip to Vegas, Musadik & Tony were introduced to Moss Lipow. While sitting down and sharing stories on vintage eyewear, Moss was kind enough to give them a sneak peak at his book 'Eyewear – A Visual History' before it was released! For us, as vintage eyewear aficionados, the book was especially personal as it displays many of the collections we have at Kings of Past. For any eyewear lovers, we highly recommend this book. It would make a perfect Christmas gift! Buy Eyewear a Visual History!

Moss Lipow is an amazing eyewear designer and definitely someone the design world should pay attention to. Celebrities such as David Bowie, Lady Gaga, M.I.A, Mary Kate & Ashley Olson and Elton John are true fans of this avant-garde, bold, and extravagant eyewear artist. His masterpiece frames have been featured in prestigious fashion magazines such as Newsweek, Vogue Italia, and L'official.

The book 'Eyewear a Visual History' is an incredible historical depiction of eyewear and eyewear trends over the years. 'Eyewear a Visual History' contains 1200 images of his own collection of museum-quality vintage frames and his own incredible custom made frames. Accompanying the wealth of images is a detailed history including: prehistoric whalebone eyeguards, 13th century Italian clergy wooden spectacles, medieval leather goggles, 19th century lorgnettes, 20th century aviators and everything else that gave birth to the eyewear fashion industry as we know it today.

'Eyewear a Visual History' is extravagantly illustrated and is true eye-candy for those in love with vintage eyewear!
