

BOOKS, CONSUME, NEWS

It's Taschen Warehouse Sale Time

By Stephanie Murg on June 22, 2012 6:08 AM

We love a sale, and with the exception of a Chado Ralph Rucci sample sale (which exist only in our wildest dreams), our favorites take place at the handful of Taschen bookstores scattered about the globe. And Taschen warehouse sale time is again upon us. The stateside sales (at the Taschen emporiums in Beverly Hills, Hollywood, Miami, and New York) begin today and run through Sunday, offering beautiful books of “art, anthropology, and aphrodesia” at 50% to 75% off their retail prices. Come early and wear your game face, because we may look sweet, but we will totally jump you for the last discounted display copy of i-D covers 1980–2010. Can't get to a Taschen store? Check out the just-posted sale offerings online.