

Paris, a photo portrait of a city

books

Calling all lovers of Paris and the photographic arts - this book is for you! A tribute to the French capital, this photographic chronology covers over 150 years of the capital's colorful history. Seen through the charmed eyes of the world's best photographers - Niepce and Daguerre invented this new art on the banks of the Seine - this 600 page work featuring 500 photographs explores its monumental and intimate spaces, both past and present, where the poetry of Lartigue, Brassai, Cartier-Bresson, Ronis and Horvat rub shoulders with the inspired talent of unknown artists. The historian Jean-Claude Gautrand guides us through this fascinating patchwork like a familiar family album. An incredible journey through time.
