

bib 'li' o 'taph, [bib-lee-uhtaf, -tahf]: a person who caches or hoards books

A new collection of evocative black-and-white images by photographer Jean-Michel Berts exposes the unique character of this majestic city, with its smorgasbord of architecture both medieval and modern, in the twilight of dawn when the bustle of the global capital is stilled. Jean-Michel Berts (photographer), John Julius Norwich (text) - The Light of London - Hardcover, 132 pages, Assouline (assouline.com).

London's remarkable history, architecture, landmarks, style, swagger, and stalwart residents are pictured in hundreds of compelling photographs sourced from notable photographers, including Slim Aarons, Cecil Beaton, Linda McCartney, Lord Snowdon, Juergen Teller, Mario Testino and more. Reuel Golden - London: Portrait of a City - Hardcover, 552 pages, Taschen (taschen.com).

With a selection of stylish hotels, antique markets, vintage shops and hip boutiques, and the best of the capital's restaurants, bars, tea rooms and pubs, Angelika Taschen's compendium is a must for the discerning traveller. Angelika Taschen - Taschen's London: Hotels, Restaurants & Shops - Hardcover, 388 pages, Taschen, taschen.com.