

Fashion's Night Out with Taschen

So, what's doing in the world of fashion you ask? God, don't I keep you up-to-date as it is, writing about the Curve expo, NYC's fashion week, etc? \

Ok, ok, you want more, well here ya go.

Our good friends at Taschen, internationally known publisher of high-end art books and photo collages are holding a Fashion's Night Out tonight at their NYC city store, from 7 to 9pm. Located at 107 Greene Street, this amazing store in the heart of vibrant Greenwich Village will host a get together for anyone interested in fashion and the curated libraries of Dana Lorenz, Valerie Steele, Jeremy Scott and a whole bunch more. As the press for the event states: "Peruse New York fashion favorites while enjoying hot and cold brews provided by Stumptown Coffee Roasters and confectionary provided by Eleni's New York."

To ensure admittance please RSVP to store-ny\(at\)taschen.comtaschen.com) or call 212.226.2212

I have been to plenty a party at this Taschen store, have interviewed a bunch of Taschen authors and photographers and know the staff well, they are all a friendly bunch, as interested in publishing one-of-a-kind books as they are in hanging-out and getting friendly. Really you couldn't do better than getting your tuckus down to the village this evening for this one-of-a-kind fashion event.
