

Contents

11	Origins and Birth
11	The Move to Le Havre
13	The Schoolboy
16	Ochard's Student – Early Efforts
19	His Mother's Death
22	Caricatures
19	Meeting Boudin
24	Grant Applications
25	Paris
28	Thomas Couture
29	The Académie Suisse
31	From Delacroix to Daubigny
34	The Brasserie des Martyrs
38	The Impasse
40	Conscription
42	Algeria
45	The Meeting with Jongkind
48	Exoneration
49	Toulmouche
53	Charles Gleyre and his Academy
54	Life in the Studio
58	Chailly-en-Bière
60	The Demise of the Academy
61	Honfleur
68	The Rue de Furstenberg and the First Salon
70	The Luncheon on the Grass
73	Camille
78	Women in the Garden
82	The Birth of Jean
84	A Return to his Roots
87	A Low Point
89	Madame Gaudibert
94	Dream and Awakening
96	La Grenouillère
98	Marriage
100	Trouville and the War

105	London
108	Zaandam
111	Rue de l'Isly
116	Early Days in Argenteuil and the Trip to Rouen
119	The Port of Argenteuil
121	Income
124	The Doncieux Inheritance
128	Tomorrow's Men
133	Impression
138	Making the Best of Hard Times
141	Great Encounters
145	The Hôtel Drouot
148	Misfortune in the Rue Le Peletier
151	Ernest Hoschedé
155	From Parc Monceau to the Château de Rottembourg
159	The Gare Saint-Lazare
161	Leaving Argenteuil
164	L'Île de la Grande Jatte
167	The Exposition Universelle
169	The Last Hoschedé Sale
172	Vétheuil: Another New Start
174	Settling in
176	As Quick to Hope as to Despair
180	The Baritone Scapegoat
181	The Death of Camille
185	Merciless People, Merciless Winter
189	Poverty and Hope
191	Icebreak and Renewal
193	The Gaulois Affair
197	"I am working furiously"
199	Lavacourt at the Salon
203	La Vie Moderne
206	Flourishing
211	The Return of Durand-Ruel
214	Conflicts
216	Leaving Vétheuil
218	Poissy and the Collapse of the Union Générale Bank
220	At "La Renommée des Galettes"
222	From the Reichshoffen Panorama to the Pourville Seascapes
224	"Will you like what I am bringing back?"

227	From Euphoria to Despair
229	Provisional Reckonings and a Further Trip
230	The Hôtel Blanquet at Étretat
235	"The Fiasco of My Exhibition"
236	Somewhere Permanent to Live
238	Giverny
241	Bordighera
244	Monsieur Moreno, "A Veritable Marquis de Carabas"
248	Bordighera to Menton
252	New Difficulties
254	Octave Mirbeau
257	From the Lathuille Banquet to the International Exhibition
259	The Life of a Landscape Artist
264	The Manneporte
267	"Yesterday's Monet Is Dead"
273	Zola's L'Œuvre
276	Young Woman with a Parasol
280	Belle-Île, Russell and Poly
286	"Once I get started, nothing stops me"
295	Gustave Geffroy
296	The Château de la Pinède
301	The Whole Gang
305	Theo van Gogh's Mezzanine and the Giverny Studio
307	Anecdote versus Fact
310	The First Grainstacks
312	Chez Maurice Rollinat
316	"If Flaubert had been a Painter"
319	"For ever Monet! For ever Rodin!"
324	Homage to the Memory of Edouard Manet
326	Monet as a Teacher
329	Antonin Proust under Fire
333	Gustave Larroumet Besieged
339	"Don't make a martyr of yourself by desiring the impossible"
344	Such a Beautiful Landscape
349	Variations on a Theme: the Grainstacks
352	Requiem for a Man of Letters
335	From the Grainstacks to the Poplars
360	The Blue, Pink or Yellow Cathedral
363	The Marriages
365	The Hôtel de Ville Affair

371	A Pond to Make, A Cathedral to Paint
374	The New World, The Old World
378	Legacies, Sales and Added Value
381	Camondo, Signac and Cézanne
384	Sandviken near Christiania
388	As if in Japan
393	“Cathedral Revolution”
395	Returns and Repetitions
399	“So all of them are Manets, all Monets, all Pissarros”
402	The Henri Vever Sale
404	Léon Gérôme
406	Maurice Guillemot, an Inspired Reporter
410	Zola’s Admirable Courage
413	Boredom or New Start
417	“The Paganini of the Rainbow”
420	“So much pain and heartache”
425	A “Complete and Unanimous” Success
425	Apotheosis or Decline?
428	The First Series of Japanese Bridges
432	The First London Bridge Pictures
435	The Dawn of the 20th Century
439	“I Am a Complete Imbecile”
445	London Society
449	The Centennial Exhibition
451	The Water-Lily Pond
452	“This is not a country where you can finish a picture”
457	The Meadow
458	Farewell to Vétheuil
462	Towards a Subjective Impressionism
467	“Study and research, which will prove fruitful”
471	Enthusiasm to Order or Spontaneous Admiration?
474	“Gardening and painting apart, I’m no good at anything”
478	London: The Entente Cordiale
483	Louis Vauxcelles at Giverny
487	A Pond of Light
488	Delicate Comparisons and a Well-Orchestrated Campaign
493	Social Progress?
495	An Autumn in Venice
502	The Water-Lilies Exhibition in 1909
503	From Decoration to Abstraction

508	The Flood of 1910
509	The Death of Alice
513	“I am completely fed up with painting ...”
515	Onset of the Cataract
518	“I feel I am undertaking something very important”
523	A Studio Constructed in the Midst of War
526	The Grand Decorations before All Else
530	A Triumph in Two Panels
534	The Law of Silence
536	The Donation Made Public
539	From the Hôtel Biron to the Orangerie
544	The Donation is Formalised
545	Preparing for the Cataract Operation
549	An Operation in Three Stages
553	The Patience of Dr Coutela
556	The “Patriarch of Art”
560	“As if he had all eternity before him”
564	From Charles Coutela to Jacques Mawas
566	The Donation under Threat
570	The Swan Song
573	“Nothing to be done”
578	“Monet... may still get back in the saddle”
581	“A disease which cannot be cured”
585	The Last Remission
587	A Gentle Death
593	The Funeral
599	Epilogue
602	Index of Proper Names
612	Acknowledgements